RUSSIAN-BUILT MIG IN UNITED NATIONS HANDS—The Russian MIG-15 jet fighter, in which North Korean pilot Noh Suk took off on a training flight over North Korea and flew his plane into Kimpo airport near Seoul, where he turned it over to United Nations forces, is shown in an air force hangar at the airport. Noh Suk told aviators during a press conference that the Communists are violating the terms of the armistice agreement by shipping new jets and bombers into North Korea.

SHUNS BIKINI—Mrs. Irene Coppa, of Paterson, N.J., models the bikini suit she doesn't want. She found the suit, carefully boxed, in a New York bus terminal phone booth and turned it over to police. When the owner failed to claim it within 90 days, it was "under leapers." But Mrs. Coppa says she'll sell the luxurious garment to help pay for the "breast cancer" she and her husband hope to buy soon.

FRANK H. KORTHRIGHT, president of the Canadian National Sportsman's Show, The Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association and the Conservation Council of Ontario, who has just been awarded the Julian Crichton Conservation Trophy for an outstanding contribution to the natural resources of Canada.

The above are three prominent newspapermen of the 140 delegates who attended annual convention of the Saskatchewan Division, Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association held in Regina. Left to right: Syd Stevens, Shannon Standard and Assiniboia Times, immediate past president of the C.W.N.A.; Dr. R. J. Dorman, past president and for 30 years secretary-manager. Mr. Dorman for many years published the Alameda Dispatch, until illness forced him to retire, and A. S. King, Estevan Mercury, past president.

Underlined are the ports and air bases in Spain which are reportedly granted to the U.S. in the agreement. The protocols are said to include use by the U.S. Mediterranean fleet of the ports of Ferrol, Cadix, Cartagena, Valencia and Mahon. The U.S. Air Force would have the use of several Spanish airfields near and about Albacete, Madrid, Barcelona and Seville.

SIZED TO FIT THEIR SPORT—Good things come in small, and large, packages for the athletic officials at Nebraska Wesleyan university. Seven-dollar Ben Boldstock hats from Lincoln, Neb., and their star basketball center. At the other end of the yardstick is four-foot, ten-inch Earl Midland, freshman, also of Lincoln, who took the state wrestling crown in the 80-pound high school class last year.

SHADY WORK—No tank will ever go into battle with a nice sun-shading roof like this one, but the workers on the tank find it pretty comfortable. The corrugated metal canopy was created to protect research engineers while they work on new control equipment at the Westinghouse plant in Pittsburgh, Pa.

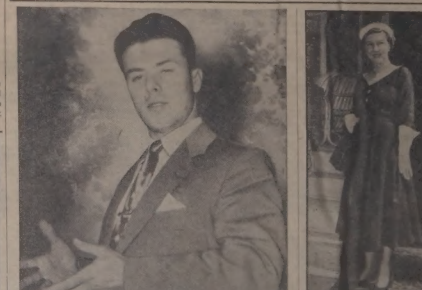

ADDRESSES UNITED NATIONS ASSEMBLY—Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Canadian Minister for Foreign Affairs tells the United Nations General Assembly in New York that Canadian troops would fight in Korea only in "A United Nations Action." Mr. Pearson making his first U.N. speech since he retired as president of the assembly, specifically accepted military unification of Korea as a U.N. aim for which Canada would battle.

CHICK IN WIRE—"Vella" modeled above looks like chicken wire, but there's the latest thing in evening accessories, designed by the Fontana sisters of Rome, Italy. The "veil" is made of thin steel mesh. One at left is dotted and fringed with Japanese pearls. The other features a harem-like touch achieved by long fringe of tiny black beads.

Mrs. Donna Diltschneider, reporter of the Assiniboia Times, listens to the chat of two oldtimers in the newspaper game. W. A. Reid, Kendrews Chronicle, left, one time old country jobbing printer and in 1910 worked with the Regina Leader, and W. W. Stewart, Vancouver, right, was publisher of the Assiniboia Times from 1912 to 1946.

HOLDING THE LINE—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower wears a hat made of 2,000 seed pearls, designed for her by the military chain of the Emily Griffith Opportunity school in Denver, Colo., and a small dress with the combined swishes, to which one adds the pearls to adhere. Despite the trend to shorter skirts

IT FRANCHISEE JARREK, the 22-year-old Polish film who fled the Communist regime in a Russian-held MIG told a group of Montreal Polish war veterans that people leave Communist controlled countries not for money but for a cause. Jarrek has been granted residence in the U.S. by a special act of congress and went to the Metropole with Alvin K. O'Rourke, a member of the congress.
